Storyboard Resources

A storyboard is a document that developers use when planning out their online training module(s). The following links are to storyboard resources and templates.

Helpful storyboard articles

The following articles give detailed descriptions on what storyboards are, how and when they should be used, and provide examples of what the finished product should look like.

  This 15-minute video contains audio and describes when a storyboard should be created in the design process as well as specific elements to include.

  This article describes the reasons why you should storyboard, walks through an example of filling out a storyboard, and provides what the finished product would look like. It also has a downloadable template.

Storyboard Templates

- Storyboard Depot: http://theelearningcoach.com/resources/storyboard-depot/